The Pickle Goddess

I could make up some lame excuse like the Llama ate the master copy of the Underground. I could make up some Lloyd excuse, such as, he killed me. I could say that Ratboy flew by and stole my master copy on the way to Kinkos; however, this is a publication of truth! The truth is, I was abducted by Aliens.

Complaints began to surface again last week as to the names of certain Ely Underground staff members. The biggest complaint came as to the name of Mr. T. Overwhelmingly, the argument that Big Goofy is more suitable. The other was to that of Doughboy. Many believe that the tune of Dan Marino or some other respected sports figure has a better ring to it. For these names to be changed, there must be a 75% pro name change vote. Since the paper has begun, this percentage was never high enough. Yet, the possible name change of Mr. T has been the closest. Votes will be taken this week beginning 11/06/95.

At any rate, we have a great issue this week. Among others, the Monkey Boy poll of the week, the introduction of the Pickle Goddess (formerly known as the Psycho Gatekeeper), and another F.E.I. report combine to make this issue the great issue it is. -TLM

As you can probably tell (or maybe not), I am a PTC member and have been through the wars with the Polo Boys and all the rest. So when I was asked by the Lizard Master to take the oath that "neither rain, nor sleet, nor hail, interrogation by Lloyd, curses from the KCM, advancement on any Hit List, or the ending of the world as we know it shall keep the Ely Underground from being published, and report the truth", of course I was flattered and agreed immediately (although I must admit, the way the Llama eyes me makes me nervous.)

Here, I would like to introduce myself just briefly (if I told you anymore I would have to kill you). And if I advance on hit lists, SO WHAT?! What's more important, world freedom or personal safety? Exactly.

Hakato-Noi!: Bombs, Lloyd, and Stinkies.

By: Monkey Boy

The Klingon Curse Master is always chanting his curses, yet no one seems to know what they mean. Recently, we at the Underground took one of his favorite curses, "Hakato-noi!", and by using advanced scientific methods, have limited it down to three possibilities, "Does any one have any Uranium for sale?", "All hail Christopher Lloyd!", or "I just did stinkies."

The first response in the survey was, "Does any one have any Uranium for sale?" Many were wondering why that was in there, but any one who has ever read The Underground knows exactly what one respondee said; "He needs more Uranium to build more bombs." While everyone may know that, none knows exactly what the bombs are for. There are three possibilities. Either the Curse Master is at War with Christopher Lloyd, in which case we should all be in fear, because this is where all of the fighting will go on; or Curse Master has aligned with Lloyd, in which case we should all fear, as Democracy, and justice will come to end on the planet Earth; or The Curse Master is out to destroy the Llama, his mortal enemy, in which case only the Llama should fear.

Another possibility was "All hail Christopher Lloyd!". The people who responded to this seemed to be rather quiet; probably because if it were true, Lloyd and The Curse Master would destroy them for responding to a Monkey Boy poll. If this really was what the Curse Master was saying, We should all be afraid for our lives, as there is no more power struggle at the top, and Lloyd has arisen as the clear leader. With all of the Leaders of the End behind him, how could Lloyd ever be stopped? I don't think that anyone really knows.

Of course the last possibility was "I just did stinkies.", which an overwhelming percentage of the population chose. Lets all hope that that's what it was, because although it may smell bad, at least he won't kill us right now. Some respondees took a more or less mediocre approach towards this response, saying "That's all he ever says.", while others were more militant about stinkies, saying "The Klingon Curse Master must die!". But of course, the best reason for stinkies was given by a close associate of the Curse Master, when he said "Because sometimes he gets that funny look on his face when he says it." While the stinkies response doesn't give us much information on the Lloyd situation, it does explain why he says it so often.

What ever the Curse Master is saying, it is clear, that the Curse Master will continue to curse us. Our only hope is that possibly, his bag will blow up, and take out Lloyd with him.

The Curse Master shows-off his new Nuke-proof suit.

Monkey Boy's Poll of the Week:

Recently, a certain Curse Master was heard to say "Hakato-Noi!" in his first block class. We have limited the possibilities down to three choices, which one do you think it is?

- a) "does any one have any uranium for sale?": 19%
0%  100%
- b) "I just did Stinkies": 56%
0%  100%
- c) "All hail Christopher Lloyd!": 25%
0%  100%

The X-ed Files

By: The F.E.I.

Many saw the movie "The Candyman". It is quite possible a similar creature lurks in Ely High. It starts with the fact that in a certain AP class, 40 students signed up, but only 20 actually showed. Our search showed that this occurred in several classes. It was discovered that the "missing" people were actually turned into zombies to serve the "Candyman". These zombies are characterized by buzzed haircuts, wander back and forth for no reason, bad jokes, wearing excessive orange and green on gameday Friday, and believing Jimmy Carter is still president. The Candyman cannot survive in this world without a guanga amount of caffeine (guanga meaning a really, really, really, really, big amount) He also likes brains, space cheese, and chocolate donuts with those sprinkley things on it*. His big plan was to wipe out his hapless students and turn them into zombie Dole supporters. Scully and I prevented this by hiding his hit list in his midterm exam and printing enough copies that the students had enough warning to escape disaster. But as long as the Candyman roams the school, no one is safe. Just keep telling yourself: This is only a class, this is only a class.....

* He also likes to brainwash people with long, strange stories.

Recently Mr. Lloyd was not in school for a few days at the end of the week of Oct. 16. Although the entire school did breathe a sigh of relief, many were wondering just where Mr. Lloyd was. Sadly, for once the Sun-Sentinel did scoop the Ely Underground on this issue. So as not to Get themselves killed, the Sun-Sentinel did not use Lloyd's real name; instead, they called him "Castro". Here reprinted without the Sun-Sentinel's permission are some excerpts from that article entitled "Visions of [Lloyd] in conflict", that was published on Sunday, October 22, 1995:

About Lloyd's popularity: "But through it all, [Lloyd] has retained his power to arouse fierce passions, inspire loathing, steal the show and attract many fans. He remains a charismatic celebrity, and more than ever the bane of the United States."

About Lloyd's plan to speak publicly at The Abyssinian Baptist Church: "Thousands of people have besieged the church with requests to meet Lloyd. People are saying, 'why don't you get Giants Stadium like for the Pope?'"

Their was even a little section about us in their: "Such perceptions drive [Lloyd's] adversaries [The Ely Underground] almost wild with anger and disgust. They say anyone familiar with with [Lloyd's] oppression of political opponents would quickly cast aside any regard for the man."

If you are one who has not yet read this truly informative article, I strongly suggest that you do. It shows that we are not the only ones who see what damage Lloyd could do to the world. Although we could not be in New York this week, I would sincerely like to thank the Sun-Sentinel for informing us of Lloyd's ever-growing political aspirations.

Only two people voted for the top 10 this week. Let me remind you: This is an AP poll. Anyone who writes for the Underground is eligible enter their idea of what the Top Ten Hitlist should read as!

***** The (2) means there were 2 first place votes for Mr. T.

A New World Order

BY: Mr. T

Ratboy and lloyd are on a rampage once again. I have discovered the purpose of negotiations between the KCM and CL, a secret arms deal. Lloyd is to attain weapons grade plutonium or uranium for the weapon of man destruction that has been designed by the satanic duo which is outlined in their holy book, or should I say unholy book? My future plans are to obtain this book that I might relay these secrets to the Ely Underground. Recently I have been greeted cordially by Mr. Lloyd and have come to think that they are trying to trick me. It is my advice to watch the Llama, for he has observed the alleged dropping off of a death threat by "Ratboy". It states, "Ratboy and I are gonna get you freak." Why would they write "Ratboy" instead of "We"? Could it be this llama does not have enough foresight to realize that we are not morons? I think so. It is my opinion that EJ and the Llama are the --- slaves of Ratboy and would obey their every command. We must not allow these friends to surrender, for it would result in the subjection of our own world, which would be to adopt the likes of Ratboy, KCM, CL, 3In1, the body guard, and yes, the Llama and EJ.

THE LLAMA, MORE PSYCHO THAN I?

BY: The Pickle Goddess

Now, we all know that the llama is not a paragon of normality, BUT this reporter happened to overhear a shocking aspect of the past. At a young age (as if that's an excuse) he enclosed lizards in a jar and threw a match in, causing them to explode. Of course this was met with great horror from The Lizard Master; however, we cannot rate out the possibility of LSD (iced tea) in the air freshener causing hallucinations, but that's a another story. Maybe it is in relation to the Llama being recognized by both the college board and ETS (educational testing service)?

Still Standing

BY: THE FAT

Two months ago, Ely High and the rest of the world looked on in terror as Christopher Lloyd and Ratboy put the finishing touches on an alliance. Many thought that the world as we know it would end in a matter of days. After all, how could the armies of the world stand up to Christopher Lloyd's strength, Ratboy's speed, Three-In-One's giganticness, and the KCM's magic?

But now, two months later, the world and the United Nations are still standing. Some think that Christopher Lloyd is just toying with us before he unleashes his fury and goes on a killing spree that would reduce the world's population by millions. Others attribute the fact that the world has survived to the reappearance of the Gym Crew. But while the Gym Crew is undoubtedly strong, they are no match to Christopher Lloyd and the rest of his gang. Still others give tribute to the Ely Underground for stopping the onslaught of the Christopher Lloyd gang. But while the staff of the Ely Underground would like to think that we at least slowed down their attack, we can hardly take credit for stopping them all together. This only leaves one other possibility on why the Christopher Lloyd gang has yet to conquer the countries of the world, and it is not because of space cheese or goat milk. It must mean that the members of this notorious gang possess weaknesses that they have kept hidden and secret from the rest of the outside world. Furthermore, this reporter feels that it is his personal responsibility to investigate and to uncover these weaknesses in the upcoming week so that the fight for freedom may continue. In the meantime, continue to fight courageously against these forces of darkness.

Halloween, Space Cheese, & The KCM

By: The Pickle Goddess

Trick-Or-Treating this past Halloween, I decided to use my costume as the clever disguise necessary to voyage unharmed into the KCM's realm. This Halloween, the Curse Master was handing out candy in Star Trek wrappers, but upon careful study, was found to have the known composition of space cheese. Our brave editor, The Lizard Master, volunteered to taste test the space cheese (actually we didn't really tell him it was space cheese, but oh well). Anyway, according to TLM, space cheese bears a striking resemblance to banana taffy. He will be kept under close watch for side effects. So if you are trick-or-treating, beware of Star Trek candy! It's effects are yet unknown.
